ABOUT ME

As a driven BSc student in Computer Science and Engineering, I possess a robust academic background and a solid grasp of key technical skills, including object-oriented programming (OOP), web development, and database management. My problem-solving abilities are well-honed, and I am proficient in utilizing Git/GitHub for effective version control and collaborative projects. I am keen to leverage my technical expertise to tackle real-world challenges, with a commitment to ongoing learning and practical application of my knowledge. Whether working autonomously or as part of a team, I am dedicated to delivering top-tier solutions that meet and exceed expectations.
